Spiritual counseling is intended to help the individual with spiritual direction: how to utilize our books and courses, how to learn the practices of study and meditation, and how to make healthy, balanced decisions regarding spiritual practices.

Spiritual counseling is only beneficial for those who are ready to take serious and disciplined steps in their spiritual direction.

Spiritual counseling is not psychological, psychiatric, child, family, marriage, or pastoral counseling. It is not intended to give medical or health advice. For all such needs, please see your personal professional health or pastoral practitioners.
