

Chapter One, The Symphony excerpted from Ageless Wisdom by Torkom Saraydarian

The Ageless Wisdom, or The Teaching, is a symphony of ideas collected and related together in such a way that they reflect the highest Wisdom given by Cosmic Minds.

Through ideas, archetypes are reached in which the human soul realizes the relationship of energies and matter which sustain the manifestation of a solar system or a galaxy.

In every cycle the symphony of ideas is played in a new key to clear away the crystallizations in the human mind and then to open a new way leading to the Highest.

As human understanding develops and consciousness expands, man touches new tides, new currents of ideas, through which hidden corners of his nature come into existence.

The Teaching is the meeting point of two mighty currents of energy: experience and revelation, wisdom and knowledge.

People do not realize yet that just as a man thinks, so the planet thinks, the solar system thinks, the galaxy thinks, the Cosmic Whole thinks. Thoughts from such higher sources scattered in Space nourish the human soul and open it step by step to the labor of higher and higher creativity.

All pure thoughts form a symphony in Space. Man grows by merging his mind into the symphony of these thoughts, behind which exist the world of ideas, the world of archetypes, and the Mighty Minds. The Ageless Wisdom, the Teaching, is the network of light relating all these mighty currents of creativity.

To study the Ageless Wisdom means to fuse your soul with the mighty currents of creativity.

People sometimes think that the Teaching is contained in books written in the past six-thousand years, but much earlier records have been found. These records were found not only on certain kinds of metals but also on stones, on walls of ancient ruins, and on rocks of certain mountains. The Teaching is found everywhere upon the Earth, especially in ancient volumes, under various names, hidden in mountain caves.

There are records of Wisdom older than fifteen million years. This is a hallucinatory statement for some people, but, for those whose minds are open, the Earth has many surprises and many treasures. There are records related to the Atlantean civilization and even the Lemurian civilization. We are talking about records fifteen to twenty million years old.

Human experience and knowledge gained from higher sources always exist, but sometimes they are hidden in order not to lead unprepared people into danger.

The Teaching in its entirety exists in Space. Soon, people will be able to read the scrolls of Space on which the Wisdom of all races since the beginning of this globe has been recorded.

Man believes that all his information is drawn from books and experience, but in reality a major part of our knowledge comes from the scrolls of Space.

If humanity advances in group consciousness, new discoveries will be given to enable us to read the scrolls of Space. These scrolls surpass the contents of all the libraries in the world.

Most of the ancient records are locked behind iron doors or in caves, and they are not available to average human beings. But the libraries of Space are always open if we have the light of intuition to enter in.

The Earth, according to the Ageless Wisdom, went through four cataclysms due to subterranean convulsions and “by successive disturbances in the axial rotation of the earth.” But always it was possible to save those records which contained the essence of the Teaching.

The treasury of Space and Earth contains all the Wisdom. This Wisdom is available to those who are pure in heart.

The Ageless Wisdom is not historical information but the treasury of the knowledge of self-actualization. Every page in the Ageless Wisdom urges us to be something higher than we are in our beingness, urges us to offer something greater to humanity than what was offered in the past.